

Surrender Of Pantelleria Puts Allies Step Nearer Invasion

(By The Associated Press) Surrender of Pantelleria, a volcanic island jutting out of the Sicilian Strait about midway between Tunisia and Sicily, came today after 19 days of pounding by Allied aerial and naval fleets. The guns of the British Navy thundered six times within ten days against the batteries Mussolini had stationed on the Mediterranean bastion, and drew weak and ineffectual replies. It was the first stepping stone taken by the Allies on the path to Europe's "underbelly" since the fall of Tunisia. With its fall went another jewel in Mussolini's dream of empire. Some of Pantelleria's defenses were mole-like, with underground airplane hangars and gun emplacements dug into the rocks. These the Allied bombers sought out with skip-bombing, sending explosive cargoes ricocheting into the mouths of the cave-like shelters. On the northwest coast of the island is the only town, Pantelleria, and the only harbor, which can accommodate boats of shallow draft. Woods are thick over the hilly terrain, and a volcanic crater reaches to a peak of 2,000 feet. Mussolini began fortifying Pantelleria in 1937 and hoped with it to seal off the Mediterranean into an effective "Mare Nostrum" for the Italians. In this grandiose scheme, it was even planned to stretch submarine nets from Pantelleria to Sicily, and from Pantelleria to Tunisia. Thus Mussolini hoped to command the sea passages and squeeze off the Mediterranean in the middle. Pantelleria was to be his "Gibraltar."

But the British Navy, which harried Mussolini's fleet and sent it skulking to harbor, wrecked the dream. The loss of Tunisia laid Pantelleria open for invasion, and even before the final clean-up in Tunisia, clouds of Allied planes began the devastating assaults upon the midway island. Sometimes as many as 400 planes swooped during a single day from Tunisian bases—Cap Bon is but 45 miles west of Pantelleria—to bomb barracks, gun emplacements and airfields and shipping, and punish Axis air defenders. Starting in May, the British Navy joined in the assault, racing up to unlimber its heavy guns and create havoc in the harbor. Airplanes, with U. S. pilots and planes spearheading many of the attacks, returned again and again, demolishing docks and warehouses, and in one raid with 100 tons of bombs made the airbase near the town useless. Mussolini reinforced his air squadrons on Pantelleria shortly after the end of the Tunisian battles, but Axis air defense weakened gradually and measurably in the face of the terrific, relentless Allied raids. One June assault left clouds of smoke billowing up 4,000 feet over the northwest shore; smoke which drifted to Sicily, 65 miles away.

PANTELLERIA IS SURRENDERED

Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH FAYETTE

The morning chorus of birds has been attracting attention recently, as the large number of birds in the community arouse from their slumbers at an early hour, and join in a general chorus that would arouse the ordinary sleeper were they not accustomed to the noise. Chief among the singers in the morning chorus are the many robins nesting in the city, and the Red Birds, Cat Birds, brown thrushes, various kinds of sparrows, and other species. The chorus usually lasts a half hour or longer and by that time the birds decide it is light enough for the early bird to catch the worm, so they cease singing and start their daily search for food.

Many residents of the community still recall the five foot iron fence that formerly surrounded the Court House grounds, although it will be real news to most of the youngsters to know that such a fence enclosed the entire grounds, and that there were large iron gates at the various entrances to the lawn. Col. M. P. Eckle, auctioneer, recalls having sold the fence at public auction some 35 years ago, and I am wondering if anyone who purchased part of the fence still has some of it. Col. Eckle does not recall to whom he sold the fence, as he was acting under orders of the county commissioners, who had decided that the fence was entirely unnecessary. One of the chief reasons for the fence, like the iron fences that formerly surrounded many residences in the city, was to prevent stray livestock, or livestock that was being moved to market, from running across the lawn and tearing it up.

The present B. and O. Railroad between Dayton and Wellston, formerly the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Division, was known as The Dayton, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway or "Black Diamond Route" (probably because it hauled so much coal), back in 1889.

Recently one of the old letter-heads of the road was handed to me, and I note that R. D. Marshall was receiver for the road in 1889. The notation on the yellowed scrap of paper is dated from Austin, July 11, 1889, and reads: "Walter Gibson, Sir: Please telegraph No. 12 at Musselman to get car of scrap iron out here for Washington C. H., O. N. M. Near".

B AND C CARS CHECKED AT CLEVELAND BALL GAMES

CLEVELAND, June 11.—(AP)—In another drive against misuse of B and C gasoline ration books for pleasure driving, a group of investigators from the Cleveland district Office of Price Administration checked out-of-town fans who motored to the Cleveland-St. Louis baseball game at the stadium last night.

MARTINS FERRY, June 11.—(AP)—Two boys drowned while wading in the Ohio River yesterday. They were Kenneth Cleveland, 13, of Martins Ferry, and Carl Baker, 9, of Bridgeport. Porter Cleveland, 16, brother of Kenneth, drowned a mile further upstream a year ago when a skiff sank.

'DOPE' BLAMED FOR RIOTS BY ZOOT SUITERS

Search for Narcotics After Marijuana Found on Many Of Youths Arrested

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—(AP)—Requested investigations by narcotics officers, the state attorney-general and the Los Angeles County grand jury into recent violence between service men and zoot suiters began today, while reinforced squads of police and sheriff's deputies redoubled their vigilance throughout the city and its environs. The disturbances which began nearly a week ago spread last night to nearby Pasadena, where civilians and soldiers chased two zoot suiters through the portals of the police station after several hundred persons had assembled on a downtown corner. The crowd was dispersed without further incident, police said.

In Los Angeles, two youths in zoot suits fled through a market near the Union Station, upsetting stalls and scattering vegetables. Close behind them were two sailors, who in turn were pursued by two Navy shore patrolmen. The sailors caught one youth and were divesting him of his trousers, police reported, when the shore patrolmen caught up. Dist. Atty. Fred N. Howser, in disclosing that he is asking a grand jury investigation of recent clashes, declared "a state of near anarchy" has existed here. R. A. Sanford, state narcotics officer, and Capt. F. J. Kenny of the city police narcotics squad said they feared marijuana may figure in the belligerency of youthful street gangs. They declared they had found the drug on many of the youths arrested.

Atty. Gen. Robert W. Kenny, here with a staff of investigators on orders of Gov. Earl Warren to probe the situation exhaustively, said he will seek to learn what part marijuana has played in the outbreaks, if any. Although still denying charges of 23-year-old film aspirant Joan Berry that he is the father of her expected child, Charles Chaplin has agreed to pay her $15,800 for various expenses pending the birth.

CHAPLIN TO PAY BUT DENIES CHARGE

Blood Test on Paternity To Determine Future

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—(AP)—In return for the financial provision, Miss Berry promises in a stipulation, signed by both sides, to submit her infant to blood tests. The 54-year-old producer and director thus hopes to establish definitely that he is not the father. The blood tests are to be made not later than four months after the birth. The child is expected in three months.

Under the stipulation agreed to yesterday the trial of the paternity suit is suspended indefinitely, and in the event the blood tests show Chaplin is not the father, the suit is to be withdrawn, and he "shall not thereafter be obligated to make any other or further payments for any purpose whatsoever."

Pay-Go Tax Bill Signed

Machinery for Collection of Payroll Deductions Set in Motion

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—The machinery for collecting 20 percent—after exemptions—from the wages and salaries of all income tax payers beginning next month was set in motion today by the treasury.

Immediately after President Roosevelt signed the pay-as-you-go tax bill late yesterday orders were flashed to internal revenue collectors throughout the country releasing millions of forms and instruction sheets for employers, who become the government's collection agents. Although the legislation becomes effective July 1, its withholding provisions will not be felt by the majority of taxpayers until July 8 or later—July 10 for most people on a weekly wage basis.

This is because of a provision applying the 20 percent withholding levy to payroll periods which begin on or after July 1. Thus the first weekly payroll period in July from which deductions could be made would end on July 8.

The treasury is reported to have prepared a comprehensive program of new levies to meet Mr. Roosevelt's request for an additional $16,000,000,000 in taxes and savings to help finance the war.

The treasury proposals, said to have been presented to James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, include suggestions for a spending tax, new excise levies and higher individual and corporate income taxes.

The new pay-as-you-go law grants a 75 to 100 percent abatement on either 1942 or 1943 taxes, whichever are lower, but does not grant relief from the quarterly tax installment due next Tuesday on 1942 tax liabilities.

The 100 percent abatement applies only to those whose tax liability is $50 or less. For those whose abatement year tax bill is between $50 and $66.67, a flat $50 abatement is granted, and for those whose abatement year bill is over $66.67, an abatement of 75 percent is granted.

The remaining 25 percent must be paid, 12½ percent next March 15 and 12½ percent March 15, 1945. Among the instructions issued by the treasury is one requiring all employers who withhold a total of more than $100 from their employees' wages in any one month to turn the withholdings over to a treasury depository by the 10th of the following month.

HITLER'S ASSASSINATION BY OWN MEN PREDICTED BY GERMAN BIOGRAPHER

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—In the opinion of Emil Ludwig, German biographer, "Hitler will be assassinated soon, by his own men." Appearing before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, testimony of which was made public today, Ludwig said "I feel sure Hitler will be done away with by 'probably by the junkers, because the junkers have always been traitors to their kings.' Then," he continued, "The junkers, the generals, will kowtow to you and say, 'We love the Americans. We do not hate the Jews. We don't ask for colonies. Come, let us be friends again.'"

CHINESE DRIVE IS MARKED BY NEW SUCCESSES

Germans Reported To Have 2,000,000 Troops Massed For Attack on Russia

(By The Associated Press) Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's triumphant armies were officially credited today with new successes in fighting along the upper Yangtze River front as Chinese troops stormed and captured a town northeast of the main Japanese base of Ichang. Dispatches said the Chinese occupied Wangchiachang after an all-night battle in which 300 Japanese troops were killed.

Other Chinese columns broke into Yingshan, important Japanese stronghold 90 miles northwest of Hankow, inflicting heavy casualties in street fighting. In the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombers dropped 40 tons of explosives among more than 100 Japanese planes in a four-wave attack on the enemy base at Rabaul, New Britain, setting 19 fires visible for 50 miles.

On the Burma front, RAF raiders pounded the Japanese army headquarters at Kalewa with bombs and machine-gun fire, attacked motor transport and river shipping, and bombed enemy strongholds at Rathedaung and Butthedaung.

SEIZURE OF CARS FOR ARMY POSSIBLE

COLUMBUS, June 11.—(AP)—Highway Director Hal G. Sours said today Ohio was prepared to cooperate fully with the army if it became necessary to commandeer privately-owned motor vehicles for America's war effort. John J. Nash, acting president of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, told a 12-state conference of the organization the machines might be needed to transport troops, lease-lend supplies and war materiel.

Nash said a series of conferences on procedure for commandeering vehicles "when and if necessary" were scheduled in the various army corps areas. The Fifth Area meeting will be held here July 12-13.

Japs Interned In U.S. So Confident They Hid Food For Paratroopers

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—(AP)—Japanese evacuees looked for a speedy defeat of the United States, and cached stolen food in the desert for expected paratroopers and other invasion forces, a former official of the Poston, Ariz., relocation center told the Dies congressional subcommittee. The testimony was included in a transcript of a secret session held by the committee here May 26 at which Harold H. Townsend, former chief supply and transportation officer at the Poston camp, was the witness. Townsend testified he had been told at least a score of times by occupants of the camp that "they would have our country before long."

"In other words," he added, "that camp is 100 percent of the idea that Japan will have the United States in a few months. . . . They are very frank about it." "There are over 1,000 Japanese soldiers and Japanese officers in (Please Turn to Page Two)

JAP BALLOON BOMBS EXPECTED ON COAST

EUGENE, Ore., June 11.—(AP)—Incendiary time bombs, carried inland by free floating balloons of probable Japanese origin were dropped on Oregon forests last year, and, in the view of Lt. Col. James W. Fraser, similar strategems of even more potentially serious effect may be expected this fire season. Colonel Fraser, member of an army party touring timber operations in the Pacific Northwest, told lumbermen of this area yesterday that at some unpredictable zero hour a repetition of the balloon bomb attacks likely will be accompanied by airplane bombing, submarine shelling and sabotage.

By DANIEL DE LUCE ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 11.—(AP)—Pantelleria surrendered unconditionally at 11:40 A. M. (5:40 A. M. Eastern War Time) today after the most concentrated Allied aerial attack of the war and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's ground forces swarmed ashore from fleet-back assault craft 20 minutes later. It was officially announced that the landing parties met slight resistance, due to the fact that word of the commander's surrender had not reached all points of the island, but all objectives were reached by 12:22 P. Mrs. Dempsey Denies It

Mrs. Jack Dempsey is shown in photo above as she went to testify in her divorce trial. With her is Benny Woodall, named by the former ring champion, as co-respondent, and her aunt.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Jack Dempsey today denied misconduct with Benny Woodall and former lightweight boxing champion, Lew Jenkins as charged by her husband, the ex-heavyweight boxing titleholder in his suit for divorce. The denial came during questioning in State Supreme court by Mrs. Dempsey's attorney, Gerald Donovan. Q. "Did you commit adultery with Benny Woodall?" A. "No sir." Q. "With Lew Jenkins?" A. "With Lew Jenkins?" Adultery is the only ground for divorce in New York state. Mrs. Dempsey, the former Hand-dan William of musical comedy, related her version of the raid on her Los Angeles apartment on November 22, 1942, by Dempsey and three private detectives. The detectives and others had given testimony on the raid claiming Woodall, named a co-respondent, was there partially dressed and ran out of Mrs. Dempsey's bedroom when they entered. Hannah said that on that evening she, Mrs. Dorothy Gomez, her sister, Woodall and his sister, (Please Turn to Page Two)

The fall of Pantelleria—three years and one day after Italy entered the war—was announced in a special communique. The climactic raids on Pantelleria yesterday and last night were described here as the greatest Allied air attack of the war in point of bomb tonnage dropped on a target of similar size. The island, 32 square miles in area and formed by a long dead volcano, lies 45 miles east of Cap Bon, Tunisia, about 60 miles by air south of Sicily and 200 miles by air from the toe of the Italian boot. HUNTINGTON, W. FBI Agent E. E. Kuhn said Mrs. Creameans and another woman inmate of the institution were captured six hours after fleeing the penitentiary. He identified Mrs. Creameans' companion as Eva Delois Graham, 26, of Winchester, Tenn., who was serving a 12-month sentence for a second violation of the May act—a law designed to eradicate vice around military camps.

PLAN COMPLETE FOR FLAG WEEK SERVICES HERE

Honor Roll Dedication and War Bond Flag Raising Among Features

Plans for the Flag Day celebration here Sunday today were complete, except for a few minor details. W. F. Rettig, the general chairman said as he emphasized that the program would be on "slow time."

The draft of the program, scheduled to start at 3 P. M. on the south lawn of the Court House, was made several days ago, but it had several gaps in it until now.

Although there will be no parade, there will be the customary martial music by a section of the Washington C. H. High School band, Rettig said.

Whether any of the civic, fraternal or patriotic organizations in either the city or county contemplated attending in a body was not known. However, since the general committee was made up of representatives of six organizations — American Legion (R. B. Tharp), Veterans of Foreign Wars (Howard Burnett), Rotary Club (Forest F. Tipton), Eagles (Albert Bryant), Lions Club (A. E. Weatherly) and Elks Lodge (Eugene McClain)—the presumption persisted that at least some of them would meet at their headquarters earlier in the afternoon and attend the ceremonies together.

The invocation is to be delivered by Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of Grace Methodist Church and, after a band selection, Rev. John K. Abernethy, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will give an appropriate reading.

One of the two highlights of the celebration is to be the presentation of the War Bond Quota Flag by Ray Brandenburg to Judge Harry M. Rankin. The flag then raised on the staff on special arrangement below the big American flag.

The other highlight of the occasion will be the regular Flag Day address by Ray Maddox along with the formal dedication of the big Honor Roll bearing the names of more than 1,500 Fayette County boys now serving with the country's armed forces.

Following the pledge of allegiance to the flag, led by the Boy Scouts, Father R. D. Rodgers, pastor of St. Colman's Catholic Church, will deliver the benediction.

The committee, feeling that one of the most elaborate and impressive Flag Day ceremonies in the city's history is in prospect, has arranged with H. E. Daugherty to install a public address system so, no matter how large and outspread the crowd may be, there will be no difficulty in hearing the speakers.

BAINBRIDGE CAPTAIN DIES OF INJURIES

The death of Captain Gordon B. Free, of Bainbridge, in a Nashville, Tenn., hospital Friday, brought to 19 the total number of fatalities resulting from the crash of a big army truck through a bridge over a railroad last Saturday night.

Sixteen of the soldiers were killed outright and two more died Sunday. The truck crashed through the guard rail and dropped 30 to 40 feet, pinning the soldiers underneath.

that camp," Townsend declared. "If you ask them, 'Were you fellows organizing on the west coast?' they will say, 'yes, we had our program all set up.' I asked them, 'what were you going to do?' and the answer was, 'as soon as our soldiers come over, we are going to help them.'"

The Japanese, he testified, are "drilling over there almost daily in military tactics, right under our noses in the camp."

Through the operation of a "thieving ring" in the camp, Townsend said, "approximately $500 worth of supplies was stolen daily, either from trucks transporting it from the rail head at Parker, Ariz., and the camp, or from the camp warehouse."

"The information that was furnished me by certain friendly groups was that they had placed different types of emergency food in secret cellars under the mess halls for the invasion armies and parachute troops," the witness said.

MINE STRIKE THREAT RAISED AGAIN IF FINE FOR ABSENCE ASSESSED

May 1, ordered the fines yesterday. They follow terms of the old UMW contract, $1 a day for each miner for each day he is off the job without a valid reason. In this case, the men were away five days. The money goes to charity.

Ickes pointed out that the government ordered the old contract continued when negotiations were deadlocked over UMW President John L. Lewis' demands for $2 a day pay boosts. The union contended through a number of spokesmen, however, that the fines were illegal because the contract had expired.

Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky union officials warned that the government fines would be "resented" by the men.

OHIO BOSS IRATE

BELLAIRE, June 11—(AP)—Adolph Pacifico, vice president of United Mine Workers District 6, today challenged the right of Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, federal mine boss, to order penalties against unionists participating in the June 1-5 work stoppage.

Ickes said in Washington that fines of $1 for each day miners were off the job without sufficient cause would be deducted from their next pay checks under terms of their old contract, which he ordered extended during the union-operator negotiations for a new agreement.

"I was surprised at Ickes' action," said Pacifico in a prepared statement. "Ickes claimed he had no authority to negotiate a contract. If the law under which he says he is operating the mines does not give him authority to negotiate a contract, how can he fine the miners $2,500,000?"

"If the fine is deducted from the miners' pay, I'll fight to the last ditch to have it returned."

Departing from the usual round of speeches, the meeting will then go immediately into a moderator-operated round table conference, with managing officers from each institution represented, participating in a "grass roots" discussion of the many current vital problems affecting the savings and loan industry in wartime.

Legislature in Tangle on State Park Funds

COLUMBUS, June 11—(AP)—A dispute in the Ohio Legislature over $400,000 for new state parks today blocked passage of the $399,034,569 biennial appropriation bill and threatened to delay final adjournment even longer.

The legislators, who reconvened yesterday after an 11-day vacation, had hoped to complete their work today, but developments raised the possibility that the session might be extended into tomorrow or next week.

Senator Albert L. Daniels (R-Highland) expressed belief that a majority of the House members would approve the $400,000 out-right appropriations if they were given an opportunity.

"Who is objecting?" he asked. "The will of a half dozen men should not control the action of the legislature." He did not name the "half a dozen men."

Other senators supporting Daniels' argument that Ohio was 25 years behind other states in the development of park lands included Carl D. Sheppard (R-Summit), Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) and Robert A. Pollock (R-Stark).

Q. "How was Benny Woodall dressed?"

MRS. DEMPSEY DENIES CHARGES OF HUSBAND AT DIVORCE HEARING

Mrs. Jackie Griffin, were in the apartment. Mrs. Gomez, she added, cooked a spaghetti dinner and afterward they sat around. She became ill from the spaghetti, Hannah said.

Mrs. Gomez left early. Mrs. Dempsey related and added that she, Mrs. Griffin and Woodall were just "sitting visiting."

Q. "What did you do then?"

A. "I went to bed and the next thing I knew I was being shaken by Mr. Dempsey—the lights were on and Mr. Dempsey was shaking me and saying 'get up you bum.'"

Mrs. Dempsey said she noticed there were strangers in the apartment and identified them as the three private detectives.

"I said, 'what's the matter here,' and Mr. Dempsey said, 'you'll find out, you'll find out.' Jack said 'get up, get up,' so I got up and stood in the corner by a chair."

Q. "Did you have your entire suit of pajamas on?"

A. "Yes sir. The next thing I saw was the heavy man Peterson (Ben Peterson, one of the detectives) and Benny. He pushed Mr. Woodall into the room and sat on him on the edge of the other twin bed. Benny was certainly bleeding terribly."

Q. "How was Benny Woodall dressed?"

A. "Shirt and trousers—a sport shirt. Then the detective said, 'so you sent your sister out early so you could be together,' and I

Alies Smash Bottleneck In Invasion Route to Italy at Pantelleria

Surrender of the Italian Island Fortress of Pantelleria, under bombardment from air and sea represents first blood for the Allies in their all-out aerial offensive against the Axis.

This strong point in the Mediterranean bottle-neck between Sicily and the African mainland literally has been blasted into submission. Troops are going ashore without suffering the terrible losses in men and material which would inevitably have attended invasion without such preparation.

It now remains to be seen whether this first triumph really represents the efficacy of this method of attack. Today's success certainly should boost the stock of British Prime Minister Churchill's remark recently before the joint session of Congress that the idea of bombing the Axis into submission was worth trying anyway.

The submission of Pantelleria removes a grave menace to Allied shipping from the narrow channel which the Allies must control for further operations in the Mediterranean. This volcanic island, which Mussolini fortified heavily a few years ago, is small in size but big in importance.

It provides a stepping stone in the direction of Il Duce's unhappy country. As things have been going, one would expect to see bombing of the great islands of Sicily and Sardinia stepped up now. They may be the next objectives.

Naturally everybody is looking across the islands toward Italy. Secretary of State Cordell Hull may have been speaking with prophetic voice when he referred yesterday to "the timely end to which he (Mussolini) is rapidly approaching."

Actually, while we want to see Italy in Allied hands as soon as possible, it already is far from the threat it used to be. From the standpoint of security, the Allies needn't rush invasion of the Italian mainland if they don't want to. Mussolini's country has become a pain in the neck to Hitler, and the United Nations won't find it an undiluted blessing either.

The words "too late" are running through beleaguered Italy like the refrain of a theme song. Radio commentators are preparing the public for the storm whose black clouds are billowing across the Mediterranean toward the Roman peninsula.

Latest to go on the air with prophetic gloom is Camillo Pellizzi, national councillor, who says that "there is at present a general state of confusion which cannot last long." The war has entered its second stage, he explains, and many issues relied upon at the beginning now look different. At the outset it looked as though the war would be confined to Europe, but it became a world conflict.

The councillor doesn't amplify that last remark about a world conflict, but it doesn't take much mind reading to figure out that he is regretting America's participation.

FORMER FAYETTE COUNTY WOMAN ON $2,500 BOND

Mrs. Dahne W. Winebrenner Formerly Ruth Ladd Pleads Innocent

Mrs. Dahne W. Winebrenner, of Galloway, former Miss Ruth Ladd, of Jeffersonville, and her husband, Thursday pleaded innocent to indictments charging them with income tax conspiracy in Kansas City, where the charges were filed and were released on $2,500 bond.

No date was set for their trials. Winebrenner also pleaded innocent on a separate charge of attempting to evade complete payment of his 1941 income tax. Mrs. Winebrenner, whose former husband, Guy Curry, auctioneer and grain elevator operator was killed by a train at South Charleston a few years ago has been a member of the Ohio censor board for several years, and is on leave of absence from her present position. She resides in Madison County, where she has large farming interests.

She was a graduate of the Jeffersonville schools and formerly taught in South Solon. She has many friends in both Fayette and Madison counties.

Mrs. Winebrenner is a bride of about 10 days, and the charges against her and her husband in the Kansas City U. S. Court came as a pronounced surprise in Ohio, where she had long been a member of the Ohio board of censors.

The Winebrenners are accused of conspiracy to make Winebrenner's gross income $6,390, when the government claims, it actually was $8,999.

Winebrenner is former sales manager of the Baker-Lockwood Manufacturing Co., of North Kansas City.

Trustees And Clerks To Attend Conference

The township trustees and clerks of Fayette County today were doing their best to get their affairs in order so they could take next Thursday and Friday off and go to Columbus to attend a streamlined conference on the duties of township officials as affected by recent legislation.

This conference, it was said, will replace the usual summer convention which was cancelled because of war conditions.

There was no check on the number who were planning to go from Fayette County to join trustees and clerks from all over the state at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel for the conference, but there were indications that a representative group would attend.

Veteran township officials have long looked forward to the annual gathering with keen anticipation and they say it is not likely that many who can possibly get away will miss the event. They point out that the meetings have their social as well as their practical value as old friends meet and discuss mutual problems.

However, since many of the township officials here are farmers, the late spring and retarded farm work is expected to interfere more than in normal years. Then, too, most of them are trying to increase their farm production as their contribution to the war effort while faced with a shortage of both labor and farm machinery.

Walter Garrison, chief of the bureau of inspection, will conduct his question and answer forums at each of the three business sessions. H. A. Thompson of Drexel Hill, Pa., president of the National Association of Township Officials, and Col. W. R. Nelson of Millersburg, Ky., will speak at the session Thursday

SOLDIER SONGS

Nothing, says the more or less official song, will stop the Army Air Corps. Sure, and that's cheering news, after looking over some of the Service Division's ideas for replacing those old favorite chateaus such as "Mademoiselle From Armentieres" and "Around Her Neck She Wore a Yellow Ribbon," on which World War Number One was won.

Atlantic City headquarters, you remember barred these two famous marching songs along with "Roll Out the Barrel," "How Dry I Am," "Oh, My Feet Hurt," "When the War Is Over" and "The Moron Song." The theory is that such verses might be interpreted as slurs on women, on military courage, or on soldiers' well-known distaste for alcoholic liquors.

So far as we have heard the ban has not been extended to "Dirty Gertie From Bizerte." That probably is because the boys who cleaned the Axis out of North Africa to the more than slightly off-color lyrics of "Dirty Gertie" haven't come home yet to introduce its multitudinous verses to trainees.

You remember some of the verses from "Mademoiselle From Armentieres" otherwise known as "Hinky Dinky Parley-Voo." Of course you do. We can't print them, anyway—no more than some of the reasons why "Around Her Neck She Wore a Yellow Ribbon."

Those were real grass-roots soldier songs. Presumably they started from spotless Purity League lines but they, didn't stay in altogether the original lines after the boys, between chasing rats, searching for body lice and whipping Germans, dressed them up to take their minds off their more pressing physical miseries.

Don't bet a plugged penny that the fellows won't find ways of making something different out of some of the new offerings. Probably a lot of people will not approve, but honestly, now, what would you do if you were somewhere in North Africa or on Guadalcanal, or perhaps in the Balkans or Norway or France or Germany, plodding wearily along a road in full battle equipment, wondering when a wave of Stukas would begin dropping bombs—your back almost broken, your feet sore and your stomach empty—and some cheery soul tried to strike up a marching song like "Marching Along Together?"

By the way, do you know any good new verses for "Mademoiselle From Armentieres?" The war is going to move into France pretty soon.

It seems that Alex is a peculiar duck—he didn't like the water.

that the aircraft industry plans to exceed this year's enormous aircraft production schedule by more than 55 percent next year; and that our current production rate is greater than that of all the other nations of the world combined. According to War Production Chief Nelson, the 1943 munitions goals will be fully achieved, and in some instances, exceeded by a comfortable margin.

Speaking before the Senate Military Affairs Subcommittee, Malcolm Muir, Chairman of the War Committee of the National Association of Manufacturers said: "I only wish the public could know more of this wonderful production record—"

"Of how many bombs we have stored to drop on German, Italian and Japanese soil. . .

"Of how many bombs we have stored stored for our heavier guns. . .

"Of how, as disclosed by the Under Secretary of the Navy, 40,000,000 20-mm. anti-aircraft shells or more than 1,000 for every minute of the day, were loaded for the Navy during February."

When historians come to view the war to date, along with the defense of Britain, the resistance of the Russians, and the amazing performance of our own fighting forces they will no doubt cite the production achievements of American enterprise as one of the outstanding events of the conflict.

It is strange but one always feels that his criticism of any thing is constructive but when the other fellow criticizes us or some project in which we are interested his criticism seems destructive and unfair.

New Food Ration Order Helpful for Invalids

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE FOOD rationing boards have received so many applications of a certain sort that the Office of Price Administration under date of February 9, 1943, issued ration order No. 13, which is concerned with diets for invalids. This has to do with consumers who need more processed foods because of illness.

Any consumer whose health requires that he have more processed foods than he can get with his present war ration book No. 2 may apply for additional points. The application must be made on OPA form R-15 by the consumer himself, or by someone acting for him, either in person or by mail. The application can be made to the board only for the place where the consumer lives himself, submitting with the application a written statement from a licensed physician or surgeon showing why he must have more processed foods and why he cannot use unrationed foods instead.

The board, after it decides that the application is bona fide and proper and the applicant's health depends on using processed foods exceeding the amount his ration book allows, can issue to the applicant the number of points necessary to get the additional foods he needs.

This loosening of restrictions will help many invalids or semi-invalids, particularly those with digestive disturbances—ulcer of the stomach or duodenum, acid dyspepsia, some cases of gallstones and those with forms of intestinal indigestion. For these, processed, pureed and soft foods are necessary and it is only proper that the restrictions on their ability to obtain such foods should be lifted.

Thanks to the efforts of the Committee on Food Rationing of the New York Diabetes Association, invalids with diabetes are also receiving special consideration. Suggestions to diabetics are as follows:

Voluntary surrendering of sugar ration cards should be the first step towards the registration of diabetics; in place of sugar rations, the diabetic patient should receive extra ration cards for protein foods, especially meat, milk and butter, and fresh or canned vegetables and fruits.

Providing Fresh Vegetables

The important problem is to provide sufficient fresh and canned fruits and vegetables—especially green vegetables to provide sufficient bulk—to compensate for the concentrated foods usually predominating in the diet of the diabetic. It is doubtful whether there exists in the diabetic a need for cream above that of the general population; hence, if sufficient milk is available, it will be unnecessary to make special provision for cream. Oleomargarine and other fats may replace butter to the same extent advocated for normal individuals.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

P. I. M.:—Please comment on a statement I saw recently in the paper: that it is unhealthy to have plants in the sick room.

Answer: I know of no special reason that plants are unhealthy in the sick room except in the case of certain plants, such as primrose, to which many people are sensitive—so much so that they produce allergic reactions. Plants are certainly good for the psychology of a convalescent patient and they take one side of the respiratory cycle of nature which states that animals breathe out carbon dioxide and use oxygen and that plants breathe out oxygen and utilize carbon dioxide. Therefore, of course, if the patient is pretty sick and the plants have a heavy odor, they had best be removed, but this is merely common sense.

H. C.: How is a person affected who has a dilated esophagus? Is there any cure for a person suffering from this condition?

Answer: Dilated esophagus is usually the result of an obstruction which is in the entrance to the stomach. The symptoms are fullness after eating, with regurgitation of food into the mouth and occasionally vomiting. Cure is accomplished by dilating the obstruction.

CHAPTER TWENTY FIVE
CHIEF MANZANARES bristled with importance as the sleek-haired Mexican office boy led the way to Steve's office. When the door clicked open, Steve looked up from behind piles of papers that covered his desk.

"Have a chair," Steve said briskly. "I'll be with you in a jiffy." Manzanares' short, stubby fingers unzipped the yellowish brown brief case he had carried under his arm with a gesture of sweeping triumph. He fell immediately to rattling papers while his gaze darted around the room in quick, bird-like thrusts, as if unwelcome eyes might at any moment peer out from behind the chairs, the drab tan file cases, or even the water cooler in the corner. Steve caught the dramatic air of secrecy and excitement brimming in the office. He laid aside his pencil and swung his chair to face Manzanares.

"What's on your mind?" "Oh! Señor, I have discovered a very important clue!" Manzanares' fingers nervously caressed a paper in his hands. "Last night I noticed one big hombre at the fiesta. I knew I had seen that face before. I inquired and, yes, sure, it was Jefe from Mexico City. He is one dangerous gringo. I wired the chief of police pronto and here is a full report."

"Read it," Steve ordered sharply. "Damon Jeffries, aged about 40, 6 feet two, 225 pounds, owner of a chain of burlesque theaters, once affiliated with Texas Red, served two terms at Leavenworth prison in States for bootlegging. Lately has been holding secret meetings in his Pecos Street theater, being watched by police." Manzanares let his voice drop on the last four words.

"Sounds like you might have something there," Steve said thoughtfully.

The little officer puffed out his be-medaled chest. "Like the Mounted Canadians, Manzanares always gets his man," he reminded him.

Steve said slowly, weighing each word. "While the Parkinsons seem like fine people, you don't suppose they are connected with some outlaw gang operating all over Mexico, and that this fiesta is a cover for a meeting of some sort? A way to get their gang together without arousing suspicion?"

The police chief considered a long moment while he drummed his fingers nervously on his brief case before he answered. "If they are desperadoes, they are very—what you call it—clever ones—VERY clever. Could be, though, and I think they will all bear watching. With Manzanares on the job we will soon know!"

"Are you going to the fiesta tonight?" Steve asked.

"I will be there, but we must not be seen talking together."

"I won't be able to make it," Steve said. "I have a lot of work to do and anyway, I'd feel a lot better staying here on the job in case they should try to pull a little sabotage. And just for good luck, I'm doubling the guard. Miss Marsden, my secretary, will be at the fiesta though, and I'll instruct her to report anything out of the way."

Manzanares collected his papers, put them carefully back in his brief case, and reached a hand across the desk to Steve.

"I'll be back in the morning, señor, and report on what I find out. If you need me in the meantime, send a messenger to the Parkinsons' ranch. Adios, señor."

Jean's fingers had been flying over the keys of her typewriter at a mad pace in the little glassed-in cubicle she called her "office." Her eyes had occasionally left the white sheet in her machine to glance furtively through the glass partition at the two men conferring in Steve's office. She knew by the rapid expression on Steve's face that something of importance had been uncovered. She saw the police chief sweep up his papers, shake Steve's hand and leave. Steve sat for a long moment, furrows of concern creasing his forehead, then turned to press one of the long row of buttons on his desk. The buzzer sound- ed sharply over her head. She gathered up notebook and pencil and went into his office, to take the chair opposite him. He leaned across his desk, his face lighted with satisfaction.

"Things are beginning to take shape," he said briefly.

"Did the police find something new?"

"Not only new," he said seriously. "But something that puts our friends, the Parkinsons, in rather a bad light."

"You mean that your suspicions of them were correct?" Jean faltered.

"Well, nothing as conclusive as that. But one of their fiesta guests has turned out to be a notorious gangster from the States. "Maybe they don't know about him," Jean defended.

"Of course, there's that possibility, but it's rather remote."

"What are you going to do about it?" Jean asked.

"All we can do for the moment is to keep our eyes open and try to get something definite on them."

"Maybe tonight you and Manzanares will run onto something at the fiesta," Jean suggested.

Steve passed a hand over the stacks of papers on his desk. "With all this work to do, I'll be here until midnight. That's why I called you. I want you to keep your eyes open tonight and report anything you see—even if it doesn't seem very important."

Jean took a quick breath. Her blue eyes clouded mutinously and refusal trembled on her lips. She had been searching desperately for an excuse to stay away from the fiesta tonight herself. Now he was demanding she not only go, but be there every minute in the obnoxious capacity of spy!

"But," she protested, "if you have all this work to do, I think my place is here. I'm really in no mood for a fiesta, especially without you!"

For an instant her violent reaction bewildered Steve. Then there flashed before his mind a scene of the night before—Jean coming back to the table alone after her dance with Curley, her cheeks flushed crimson and small fires burning in her misty eyes. Neither of them had mentioned the incident, but suddenly he knew what it was that had spoiled the fiesta for her. He was surprised and a little hurt that Curley's uncouth action had meant so much to her. But his voice was gentle, his honest gray eyes understanding when he spoke again.

"There's not much place in war work for personal desires. When there's a job to be done, we just have to grit our teeth and do it—even if it means enduring some things not exactly pleasant."

He watched the struggle in the girl's sensitive face and finally her slow smile of spirit and determination.

"Okay, Steve," she agreed blithely. "I'll be there with my strongest specs."

She turned back at the door to find him smiling after her. He gave her a quick nod of approbation.

"Much obliged, Watson," he said. (To Be Continued)

Girl Soprano, 17, Bows to Lady Luck

By ADELAIDE KERR

If you had been in Spokane ten years ago you might have heard a little seven-year-old girl whistling to the birds before the sun was up.

If you are in New York next winter, you may hear the same girl—now a 17-year-old coloratura soprano—trilling to the dowagers across the Metropolitan Opera's footlights after the sun goes down.

Patrice Munsel has achieved part of her life ambition before she comes of age. She dreamed of singing with the Metropolitan Opera Company. Now she has a contract to do it next season. A contract she won in the eighth Annual Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, in which 600 singers were entered.

There is not a word about hunger or hardship in the story Patrice tells of events leading up to her achievement. According to her version she had extraordinary cooperation from Lady Luck.

She was born in Spokane, Wash., the only child of A. J. Munsel, a dentist. As a child she learned to whistle like a bird and became proficient enough to give a local concert.

Then when I was twelve I began voice study," she said recently in the New York hotel apartment where she lives with her mother. "Mother is a musician and she used to accompany me at my practice, so that I would not have to think of anything but my voice. When I was fourteen some friends advised me to come to New York to study and I did. Eventually I got a scholarship with William Herman. "Daddy and Mother backed me to the hilt. They have been wonderful. Daddy stayed there alone in Spokane while mother stayed here with me. I've had wonderful teachers. I didn't slave. Mother only had me work when the voice was warm. I don't know how it is—I just open my mouth and it comes out."

What comes out, musical experts say, is a good voice of extraordinary technique, which should make a top-flight coloratura when it is fully trained.

Last winter her opera coach, with whom she has studied eight roles, suggested that Patrice enter the Metropolitan Opera auditions. She did and worked her way steadily through a series of elimination contests while her excitement mounted to fever pitch.

Came the night after the semi-finals, when the official in charge of the auditions telephoned her at a concert and (without telling her she had won) asked her to prepare something to sing in the final auditions broadcast, in which only the victors sing. Patrice walked home on air, philosophizing on life as viewed from the ripe old age of 17. She floated down the street saying to her mother:

"Have you noticed how wonderful the world is and how kind and good people are?"

Then came the biggest night of her life when she sent her arpeggios trilling over the air in the finals. She received a prize of $1,000 and one of the only two contracts resulting from the auditions. Later that evening Patrice achieved more of her life ambition when she sang in concert on the Metropolitan Opera stage, while Munsel mere and pere watched from the audience, proud as only parents can be.

Patrice got stacks and stacks of flowers as a result of that evening, but the thing which pleased her most was a wire of congratulation from the Spokane Athletic Roundtable ending:

"Don't forget you started from screech."

FLIER FROM OHIO KILLED
AS 'CHUTE FAILS TO OPEN

HAMILTON FIELD, Calif., June 11—(AP)—Second Lieut. Emmanuel V. Wyss of the Santa Rosa Air Corps, was killed yesterday in a leap from his burning single-seated plane two-and-a-half miles west of Graton, Calif.

Wyss was flying at a low altitude when his plane burst into flames. Hamilton Field authorities reported. His parachute failed to open.

Wyss' mother, Mrs. Margaret Wyss, lives at Georgetown, Ohio.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The Shadow of Things to Come:

Mr. and Mrs. America on the home front are headed for trouble that will make their present difficulties seem like kindergarten stuff. The trouble is partially of their own making, but we won't go into that.

Some of the troubles, not necessarily in the order of their importance, are:

(1). Food. If you think this is a problem now, wait until this year's crops are in. Bad weather—including late spring freezes, flood (and maybe droughts to come)—have done much to wreck the increased production program. Military and lend-lease demands have been greater than anticipated. Prospects for a corn crop don't look good and that will affect pork, poultry, and dairy products.

Conscientious grocers, who refuse to deal with the food bootleggers, are going to have less and less to sell. Dishonest grocers who deal with the black marts, are going to have some things but their prices will be so high that they will be tarred with their own brushes before they garner much profit.

(2). The gasoline shortage in the east (and perhaps in the middle west, too) is growing by such leaps and bounds that there is only the slightest possibility that it won't disrupt the whole transportation system to such extent that drastic measures will have to be taken—perhaps that long threatened rationing of all transportation—even home-to-work trolley and bus services—as well as vacation train and bus travel.

(3). Any day now, Selective Service, under demands from the military services, may launch on a drafting of fathers that will result in the greatest disruption of homelife this country has known since Civil War days in the South.

On the war fronts, this global struggle is approaching a phase of such vital importance that there can be nothing but big news in the offing.

(1). Invasion. It's bound to come and soon, but the chances are that the proper word is "invasions." The European continent is in a dither of anticipation—the Italians, the Nazis, the anti-Axis fifth columnists and guerrillas, and even the still neutral nations. Both Roosevelt and Churchill have promised the second front or fronts and there hasn't been a word of complaint from Russia against British-American strategy for several months.

(2). Bombings. In view of the news, the only comment worth recording here is the declaration of British officials that these quintupled "Coventry raids" we are now staging from Pantelleria to Norway and Brest to the Caucasus are "just chicken feed" compared with what is ahead.

(3). The Pacific. Military observers here who seem best informed, are merely grinning and saying "Wait and see," when the subject of our neglect of Japan is brought up. This is such a radical change from the gloomy pessimisms of just a few weeks ago, that it can only mean there is good reason for such a new face. It won't bear speculation, but questioning the possibilities of offensive action brings from the wisecracks another question: "All right, why haven't the Japanese made one single important offensive move in nearly a year, with the possible exception of their present weak effort against Chungking?"

Peggy Miller Dance Review Enthusiastically Received By Capacity Attendance

Students Present Unusual Rhythm Features
Thursday in High School Auditorium

The "Rhythm Review" given by students of Peggy Miller, was enjoyed by a capacity audience at the High School auditorium. The numbers were presented with almost professional skill, even by the adorable four-year-olds. A beautifully decorated stage and the gay costumes added much to the variety of the show.

Mr. Donald Riber was at the organ before the show and during intermission. His selections were an outstanding feature of the evening.

The program opened with the song "Hip Hip Hooray" sung by Jo Lynn Parrett, Nancy Barney, Barbara Willis and Mary Lou Secrets, after which they presented a snappy military dance. Jane Ann McCoy in "Stars and Stripes" showed much talent. The "Blue Hula" danced by Wilma Brown, Patricia Lou Miller, Jacqueline Hoppess and Zanna Cowdrey afforded much applause.

"Let Me Call You Sweetheart" by Patty Anderson, was cleverly given and her dancing highly commended. Marian and Marilyn Fulton were exceptionally good when they presented "Swing Rhythm". They also sang "Johnny Zero" and followed by a dance performed in a complete blackout. Large hearts on their costumes glowed in the dark and this presented a very unusual number.

Louise King was praised for her very outstanding baton-twirling while a group of college dancers performed in the background. Marilyn Harrison and Harriet Burgess were exceptionally good on their more advanced routines. Phyllis Pittenger again displayed her talent in both singing and dancing when she gave "What's the Good Word, Mr. Blue Bird". Nancy Lee Hewitt and Joyce Jamison presented their dances with exceptional skill and were highly complimented.

Jane Pittenger displayed her ability in her song and dance, the presentation having a professional quality. Peggy Miller performed Rhythmology which was a dance of various rhythms combined.

The following numbers were also presented:

KRUPA BAND MUSICIANS BEATEN BY ZOOT SUITERS

PHILADELPHIA, June 11 — (AP)—A pianist and a saxophonist in Gene Krupa's dance band were mistaken for zoot-suiters and severely beaten by two unidentified sailors early today in a Broad Street subway station.
 The pianist, Michael Marmarosa, 17, of Pittsburgh, was taken unconscious to Hahnemann Hospital and attendants said he possibly suffered a skull fracture. The saxophonist, Bonifacio De Franco, 20, of Philadelphia, was treated for a cut lip.

COUNCIL VOTES FOR WAR TIME IN THIS CITY

Effective Sunday Night
Until September 30
Under Ordinance

Following the action of the county commissioners in ordering the courthouse clock turned to war time, effective Sunday midnight, City Council at an adjourned meeting Thursday night adopted an emergency ordinance providing for observance of war time or fast time, for all city offices and business until September 30, when the change to slow time automatically goes into effect under the ordinance.

While the ordinance became effective immediately the change is to take place Sunday midnight when the courthouse clock change becomes effective.

While the ordinance provides for observance of fast time by the city offices and all city business, it is not mandatory for business houses, but there is every reason to believe that, with the courthouse clock changed and all surrounding cities observing war time, business houses generally will make the change.

Sentiment expressed here has been overwhelmingly in favor of fast time during the summer months, particularly after other surrounding cities changed.

It is expected that Jeffersonville, Bloomington and other towns in the county will also make the change, as the smaller towns have done elsewhere.

In addition to passing the time change ordinance, council discussed the question of making Market Street a stop street at Hinde Street, by ordinance, as it is now being observed under the temporary routing of west bound traffic over Market Street.

FALL OF PANTELLERIA PUTS ALLIES ONE STEP NEARER TO INVASION

miles away.

Pantelleria's peacetime population was about 10,000 with thousands of soldiers sent to man this "fort." Many of the inhabitants in modern times were prisoners sent there by the Italian government, and the town of Pantelleria is marked by a castle and the old prison.

Agriculture is its livelihood, with figs, olives, grapes and vegetables the principal crops. Lack of fresh water, however, limits growth. Mule trails connect its fruit and vegetable farms.

The volcano is inactive, but the island has numerous hot mineral springs and steaming fissures.

The island has been through many different hands in its history—Carthaginian, Roman, Arab, Sicilian, Spanish and Turkish. The Phoenicians used it as a way station on trips to Carthage and Spain. The Romans used it to house political enemies. Pirates made it their lair. Arabs and Christians vied for it and relics indicate that prehistoric tribes of Neolithic men once roamed its hills.

Its main feature is the volcano which rises 2,000 feet and beneath which underground fires still simmer. Its shallow strait goes no deeper than 1,200 feet and in one spot there is a shoal 50 feet below the surface, piled up by a volcanic action in 1831.

CHILD'S RAPE-MURDERER IS CONDEMNED TO DEATH

COLUMBUS, June 11.—(AP)—Anthony Treat of Cincinnati, must die in the electric chair at Ohio Penitentiary for the rape-slashing of ten-year-old Helen Sellers last December 24.

The execution date was set yesterday by the Ohio Supreme court in dismissing Treat's appeal.

FOOD AND CLOTHES

FOR WAR VICTIMS ON U. S. PLAN CONSIDERED

Items of civilian populations in war-torn areas are to be met in the most effective way, all available resources must be drawn upon and efficiently organized.

Article V of the draft agreement calls upon each member government in the central administration to pledge its full support, "within the limits of its available resources and subject to the requirements of its constitutional procedure, through contributions of funds, materials, equipment, supplies and services, for use in its own, adjacent or other areas in need."

Nothing was said in the draft agreement about the recipients of relief making any payment for the supplies sent to them.

CONTRAVERSIES AVOIDED

COLUMBUS, June 11.—(AP)—Executive Secretary Murray Lincoln of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation asserted the press was looking for controversies at the recent United Nations food conference while "we were looking for agreements."

Lincoln, one of six U. S. representatives among 133 delegates from 44 nations, told a meeting of federation employees here yesterday that "an amazing sense of agreement" was produced at the conference in Hot Springs, Va.

Contending it would be "absolutely unfair" to say the press was not taken care of at the sessions, Lincoln said:

"One of the troubles with the press was that they were always looking for controversies. We were looking for agreements, not arguments."

On the Russian front, Adolf Hitler's armies with upwards of 2,000,000 troops were described in Berlin accounts as ready to spring their long-expected summer offensive, but the Russians declared they had crushed two more German "feeler" thrusts and had gained aerial supremacy in the Caucasus.

So far, by Soviet report, the Germans have failed to locate a single weak spot in weeks of jabbing at the Red army's defenses all up and down the 1,500-mile battlefront, with perhaps the sharpest Nazi thrusts centering in the Ukraine region where Hitler launched his ill-fated drive against Stalingrad last year.

Today's Russian communique told of New German attacks near Sevsk, northeast of Kursk, and around Lisichansk, south-east of Kharkov, while the Soviet midnight communique said tank-led Nazi troops in considerable strength were thrown back after an assault west of Rostov.

"The front in the east has put on fat again," said Lieut.-Gen. Kurt Dietmar, German military commentator, thus suggesting that masses of Nazi reserves were now in position to strike.

COLLECTION OF TIN IS REFLECTED HERE

Large Box on Court House Lawn Again Emptied

Once more a crew of city workmen hauled a half a truck load of prepared tin cans from the collecting box on the courthouse lawn, Friday.

The box was placed at a convenient spot along the alley for convenience of out-of-town residents who wish to contribute their tin cans toward the war effort.

All cans must be washed, labels entirely removed, both ends cut out, mashed flat and the ends tucked into the mashed can.

In unison, Ducey and Allen voiced appreciation of the entire Civilian Defense Council here for the "wholehearted cooperation given by everyone." They said that without such understanding and cooperation the test would have been a failure and a reflection on the sincerity of the people in time of war.

All persons enrolled in the defense program, which includes several hundred in the city and county, will be on the alert to respond to a surprise air raid test at any time.

In the surprise tests no advance notice is given officials.

In case of an order for a blackout, the same signals used Wednesday night will be carried out. Citizens, whenever a blackout is sounded, must turn out all lights at the first warning signal and keep them out until the street lights are turned on. Stay off the streets and, if driving, pull to the roadside or to the curb, and remain there until the alarm is over.

BLACKOUT TEST EXPECTED HERE AS A SURPRISE

Civilian Defense Council Expresses Appreciation of Public Cooperation

The people of Washington C. H. and Fayette County today were warned that they could logically expect a surprise blackout "anytime now," by Edwin Ducey, head of the Civilian Defense Council here, and Col. Rell G. Allen, the commanding officer in times of air raid defense tests.

They pointed out that unless the precedent followed in other sections of the state was abandoned, another call for a test of the city and county defense system would come from the state headquarters "in the very near future." Other Ohio areas which have had blackouts have been given surprises, they said and added there was no reason to believe this area would be any exception.

The Civilian Defense Council, from the head men in the control room right on down through the wardens and patrolmen, were jubilant over the functioning of the system last Wednesday night. That one, the first here, was labelled a "100 percent success" for both city and county.

Col. Allen, reviewing the first trial and anticipating the second as a surprise, said subsequent blackouts would be no better and the first and expressed the hope that they would be as good.

In unison, Ducey and Allen voiced appreciation of the entire Civilian Defense Council here for the "wholehearted cooperation given by everyone." They said that without such understanding and cooperation the test would have been a failure and a reflection on the sincerity of the people in time of war.

LEESBURG — Frank X. Frebis, Georgetown, who served with distinction in World War I will speak at the dedication of the Leesburg honor roll Monday at 9 P. M.

English sparrows have been destroying large numbers of honeybees on the premises of Rev. W. H. Wilson, one of the leading bee keepers in the community, who has a large number of stands back of his home on Broadway.

The birds swoop down upon the bees while the latter are fanning air into the hive, and devour the insects before they have an opportunity to escape.

Traps are being set in an effort to ward off the sparrows.
